BOSTON TURNS THE TABLES.

THE STATESMEN TAKE A BIG DROP IN THEIR BATTING

After Tieing the Score They Lose the Game Through a Wild Pitch-Detroit, Pittsburg, and Phillies Victors-Doings on the Truck.

The Bostons turned the tables on the Washingtons yesterday afternoon, and defeated the Statesmen in a seven-inning contest that was no marked by any special features. At the start the Bostons took the lead, and scored three carned runs on a base on balis, a two-base hit, a single, and a put out. In the fourth inning the States men crept up on their opponents and made two tallies. Carroll started off, and was retired at first on Nash's put out, Hines then rapped the sphere for two bases, Daily went out on a fly, but O'Brien came to the rescue with one of his usual home run lits, and Hines and the big first baseman acored. In the fifth innieg the Bostons still further increased their lead, and scored a run on a base on balls, and out at first, and Sutton's base hit. The score thus remained 4 to 2 until the first half of the seventh inning, when the Statesmen tied the score amid great enthusiasm. O'Brien and Dealy were the lucky ones to make base hits, which, aided by a passed ball, a wild pitch, and Radbourn's error, enabled the Washingtons to attain this end. The contest did not long remain at this stage, however, as the Bostons in their half of the loaning quickly won the game by making retired at first on Nash's put out, Hines however, as the Bostons in their half of the inning quickly won the game by making two runs, which was mainly due to O'Day who, after two men were out, pitched a bell over Dealy's head and allowed the two men on bases to score. Darkness at this point prevented further play, and the game was called.

O'Brien's home run, Nash's play at third base, Morrill's at first, and a difficult fly catch by Hines were the features of the game. The score:

New York, Oct. 6.—The so-called Giants of the Polo grounds were but illiputians in the hands of the Philadelphians in the game to day. They could not play at all. Ferguson, the all-around player of the Phillies, was put in the pitcher's box and did famously. The Philadelphians had a knack of hitting short. Infield lies that none of the New York's neiders could get. Not an error was made by the home t-am, and still they were beaten, and it was those short hits that did the business. Score:

LOST BY A FOUL.

The Fight Between Billy Young and Johnnie Monahau.

The idea of going to bed was not by any means prevalent among the sporting fra-ternity in this city on Wednesday night: in fact, every effort seemed to be in the line of staying up and keeping awake. There was an air of mystery in their movements that invited investigation, and it resulted in many more being added to the "conspirators' chorus," which paraded the streets in small squads and haunted sundry saloons, where members of their clan are wont to "hang out." Everybody seemed to be waiting, and, although much time was consumed in the operation, the quantity of that fleeting and uncertain commodity so wasted paled into mere nothingness when wasted paled into mere nothingness when compared with the immense amount of liquor (of a more or less "intosicating" nature—principally more) that was imbibed. Under the exuberating influences of the circumstances—and the fluids—the puglistic tendencies of several individuals were developed, and brief "scrape" resulted in quite a number of instances. About 2 o'clock, "on tiptoe stealing," a few of the knowing ones, having loaded themselves, proceeded to load up cabs and hacks with their precious persons, and from then up to 4:30 to load up cabs and hacks with their precious persons, and from then up to 4:30 a. m. there was an almost continuous parade of crazy vehicles wending their way toward the navy yard. Occasionally an early riser in that neighborhood would pull aside the window blind and gaze at the passing carriages, wondering, in his semi-somnolent way, who the distinguished individual was that had died and why vidual was that had died, and why they were burying him before sunrises. Across the Ana ostia bridge traffed the procession, and after winding its sinuous way to the district line, halted near Suntland. to the district line, halted near Sutland. The precise locality was Jackson's farm, in Prince George county, Maryland, and here, in the grey dawn, things began to assume a businesslike aspect. A ring had been made of rope attached to four trees, and all was apparently ready for the bloody fray; but (confidentially) the "bloody fray; falled to materialize. Standing around the ring, at 7:30 a. m., were about 175 men, the majority of whom had invested $3 for the privilege of being allowed to breathe the pure morning air and witness a prize fight between Johnny Monahan, of New York, and Billy Young, of Baltimore. Everything had been ready for some time, but Young refused to commence the fight until two or had been ready for some time, but Young refused to commence the fight until two or three invited guests—Maryland constables—had arrived. They did not turn up until so'clock, but their presence was entirely unnecessary for no elugging was indulged in.

Charley Godfrey was chosen referee and Patesy Morgan timekeeper, and at 8:20 the latter gentleman called time. Young's second was Jim Rooney, of this city, while Jimmy Keenan performed the kindly office for Monahan. Both men are middle weights, Monahan being just up to the limit, while Young is possibly fifteen pounds lighter.

Considerable betting was indulged in and Monshan was the favorite, his condition being apparently better than that of his opponent.

There were eighteen rounds sparred through before the fight (!) was awarded to Monahan on a foul, Young having struck him after "break-away" and "time" had been called. There was a considerable amount of kick ing over the referee's decision, but it availed the losers nothing, and Mr. F. K. Ward clinched the verdict by presenting Monahan with $100. The assemblage then dispersed and the

The assemblage then dispersed and the combatants, after adjusting their coatumes, returned to the city. Neither of them appeared any the worse physically for the 'desperate prize fight' in which they had been engaged.

It was their first prize fight, and after making the necessary deductions on account of the experience of the principals the apparent result was a discreditably creditable sparring match.

CONNECTICUT'S CONTINENTALS Spend Their Last Day Here Visiting Places of Interest.

The Putnam Phalanx had no special pro gramme arranged for yesterday, so the visiting military with their guests disposed of their time to suit their own conveniences. Many groups were formed and places of interest about the city visited. The na interest about the city visited. The mational museum attracted the main body of the visitors, but the capitol, Corcoran art gallery, postoffice, and patent office received their quota of visitors. Hon. Henry T. Sperry had arranged for a visit to the executive mansion, and under his guidance a large number were shown through it.

Shortly after 3 o'clock, on invitation of United States Treasurer Hyatt, a Connecticut man, nearly the entire party visited the Treasury. The vaults were thrown open and the other interesting features of the financial department of the government inspected. It was nearly dinner hour when the party returned. After dinner uniforms were donned and preparations for participation in the Shepherd parade were made. Orders have been issued calling on the command to assemble at 8 o'clock this morning in full uniform for their departure. At 9 o'clock the special train of dining room cars will be boarded, and the Phalanx will leave the national capital after a very enjoyabie three days' visit.

The command and guests will remain in Baltimors to-day and evening. They will be quartered at the Carrolitos, where a banquet will be given this evening. THE CHINESE CONCESSIONS Wharton Barker Says They Cannot Be Withdrawn. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6,-Regarding the report that the Viceroy Lt Hung Chang had withdrawn from his reported arrange-ment made with the Wharton Barker syndiment made with the Wharton Barker syndicate, Mr. Barker said to-day that he knew nothing of it. He had written to the Depariment of State at Washington asking whether the Chinese government had notified the United States of the termination of the negotiations, but he had not yet re ceived an answer from Secretary Bavard.

He said it was not likely that China would back out at his stage of the proceedings.
Mr. Barker authorized the publication of the following statement:

The imperial Chinese consessions for the Chinese-American Bank and for the telephone were placed in my hands immediately on the arrival here of Mr. S. P. MKietchang, the special imperial envoy sonto American to discuss and to complete the business in detail.

These concessions having been accepted
at that time, and having not only the signature and seal of Viceroy Li Hung Chang as prime minister of China, but also the signatures of three other Chinese officials,
the Chinese government cannot recode
from the position taken July 23 and July 26, 1887, without giving me and my associates cause for indemnity for loss that would follow non-fulfillment of these contracts.

The public had better know that these cate, Mr. Barker said to-day that he knew

The public had better know that these The public had better know that these concessions grant a perpetual charter for a Chinese and American bank, with a capital of 25,000,000 Shangbal taels, with power to increase that capital to 50,000 to taels without further grant from the Chinese government. The bank, in addition to the usual functions of a bank, has the right to coin and issue gold and silver money, the government very properly retaining the right to fix size, weight, and standard. The profit on this branch of the business is to be divided into two equal parts, one to go to the government and one to the bank.

The bank has the right to issue paper money to the amount of the capital, the government having the same countersigned by a controller.

government having the same constersigned by a controller.

The bank has the right to undertake the buildings of railroads and other public works that may be authorized by the Chinese government.

In addition to profit in building the railroads and other public works, the bank would have a very substantial permanent interest in them all.

As the bank would have both Chinese and American stockholders, it is believed that the public and private deposits would be very large. The branches or agencies in the Chinese cities beyond the treaty ports would be wholly under the manage ment of Chinese individuals.

The opposition to this enterprise had its center in England and Germany, and from the time it was known that the prime min

Mr. S.P. Ma Kietchang sent a cable to China last evening, in which he said that having completed the negotiations he could not undo what he had done. It should be clearly understood that Mr. Ma Kietchang has received no other advice from his government than to complete the negotiations with all possible dispatch.

Count Mitkiewicz had been simply a ne-Count Mitkiewicz had been simply a negotiator in this undertaking. Mr Simon A. Stern, of this city, was my immediate and responsible representative in China, and as Mr. Stern alone signed papers for me, these facts were well known in China. The concessions are to me, and with me and the gentlemen who are my associates rests the whole business.

Should there be any truth in the reports published in London and New York yesterday, I and my associates expect, and will demand, the support of the government of the United States."

WHAT THE COUNT SAYS.

New YORK, Oct. 6.—The announcement that the privileges granted by the Chinese government to Count Mitkiewicz and an American syndicate had been recinded by command of the empress did not destroy the composure of the count. He said that the contracts had been legally executed and that they were in his possession. He did not fear that such action as rumored would be taken, as the Chinese government realizes the immense good the execution of his plans would do.

Vice Consul Lew Yuk Lin said: "Neither the Chinese minister, consul, nor I have re-WHAT THE COUNT SAYS.

the Chinese minister, consul, nor I have re-ceived and such notification, nor had the count or the syndicate. The dispatch is false beyond doubt, as we would have been notified had any such step been taken My country would lose too much. You will be safe in saying that the plaus of the count will be carried out."

HUNTING FOR A FORTUNE.

The Descendant of a Charokea Trying to Establish His Rights. WACO, TEXAS, Oct. 6 -D B Brown, an derly farmer, who has resided for several years near Lorena, in this county, appeared gn County Clerk Baker's office yesterday to affix his signature to and have record made affix his signature to and have record made thereof of certain legal documents, which go first to the capital of the Cherokee nation, in the Indian territory, and thence to Washington city. Tossed documents are of great value to Mr. Brown from his stanipoint, for he says they will establish his claim as the rightful heir to an immense fortune. Briefly told, his story is not without romance. His grandfather on the maternal side was a full-blooded Cherokee Indian and owner of large possessions in the Indian and owner of large possessions in the Internal side was a full-blooded Cherokee Indian and owner of large possessions in the Indian country. By intermarriage with white blood and removal to Texas he separated the family. Although this claimant knew he had Cherokee blood in his velos, for many years he has been tracing up his Indian ancestry, and feels assured that he has the chain complete without a missing link that will prove him to be a lineal descendant of the old Cherokee above aluded to, whose peasessions by the lapse of time have so increased that the value of the catate is now estimated at $700.001. The documents forwarded by Mr. Brown must be approved by the council at the must be approved by the council at the Cherekee capital and then go for final action to Washington city, but Mr Brown say a be will prove his claim, and eventually get pessession of the vast property now held and enjoyed by others.

AN INDIGNANT CONGREGATION. The Offer for Their Church Property Not Sufficient.

An indignation meeting was held last evening at the Fifteenth Street Presby-terian Church. The offer of Washington McLean of $50,000 for that property had called out the congregation and other-interested in the church in full force, and nearly all were in a belligerent frame of mind. The fact that there was a possibility of losing their church home caused a nearly all were in a belligerent frame of mind. The fact that there was a possibility of losing their church home caused a serious expression to settle on the faces of all. Mr. Russell pre-ided over the meeting, and as soon as it was called to orier a number of vicorous speeches were made it was argued that there was no more eligible site in the city than that now occupled by the church. There was a general feeling that $50,000 was a small sum to take for the property, and that if it should be sold those who purchased it would have to pay for what they got. One speaker said it was worth $100,000, and that on no consideration should they take less than $75,000 for it, as they could not be as well located for less than that amount, and there was no need to sell at all, as the congregation was free from debt. On the other hand, it was shown that the church was greatly out of repair, and there dido't seem to be any way to put it in proper condition, and that if cash were realized from the property a new church could be built that would be more elegant than the present edifice. It was finally decided to take a vote on the subject, which would probably have determined it in the negative, when the question of who had the right to vote was raised. Some thought only members of the congregation, while others believed that all those regularly contributing to the church fund had that privilege. In the absence of any definite information on this point a committee, consisting of the board of elders, was appointed to report at a future meeting the law on the subject, and an adjournment was then made.

A MORE ACTIVE MARKET

A Generally Confident Feeling Dominates the Stock Exchange. New York, Oct. 6 .- The stock market was more active to-day than for some time, but the interest in the dealings was com pletely absorbed by these stocks-Western Union, Reading, and St. Paul. The In terest in the general list is shown by the fact that the three stocks mentioned furnished over $\tilde{x}$ of the entire day's business. Early in the day prices advanced rapidly, and it was soon positively asserted that the telegraph deal had at last been consummated which brought in heavy buying in Western Union.

mated which brought in heavy buying in Western Union.

The general situation shows no change, the earnings of the railroads still continuing good, and if, as is generally believed in Wall street, the government puts in operation a plan to put its surplus money in circulation, a healthier business tone must result. The consummation of the Western Union-Baltimore and Ohio deal is regarded by the former as likely to add largely to its earnings.

The opening was rather heavy this more The opening was rather heavy this morning, most stocks showing declines from yesterday's final figures of from a to 3 per cent. The entire list was strong, however, from the opening, and under the lead of Western Union and Reading advanced rapidly. The rise was checked before 11 a.m., and the market showed a marked falling off in the amount of business, but prices remained firm and the coal stocks became prominent. The best figures were made at 1 p. m., after which time there was a slight reaction, and the close was rather heavy at or near the highest figures of the day.

York for violation of section 2802, Revised Statutes. In the case of Mrs. Maycock, the collector reported that she and a Mrs.
Brownell were passengers on the steamship Alaska, which arrived at New York from Liverpool Sept. 19; that upon seaching the trunk, which contained effects of both passespers, laces, slik dress goods, plush,
ace quilt, lace curtains, &c., were found concealed therein, the lace curtains having been swed between the liming and outside of a shawl strap, and the other articles concesled on the owners' persons. The collector and he regarded this importation as a wilful attempt to evade the payment of the legal duties due upon the different articles embraced in the seizure, and he recommended that the same be beld for forfeiture. In the case of Mrs.
Minangoy, who arrived on the steamship La Champague from liavre on the 20th uitumo,
the collector reported that upon making
entry of her buggage she declared 'notating dutiable.' whereas upon examination betrunk was found to contain many articles of dutiable value, such as sills, gloves, jet ornaments, infants' robes, &c.; also that trimmings were basted on old and wornout garments lace on a very inferior skirt, and cloth on two old and wornout dress skirts.
The collector added that the sitzer of the applicant also attempted to bribe the seizing officer. He, therefore, recommended the release of the seizure only upon paysent of the appraised value thereof. The circumstances in the case of Mrs. Kinkelidey, as reported by the collector, are similar to those in the last mentioned case, theniding an attempt to bribe the imspecties who examined the baggage. The collector, therefore, recommended their release enly upon payment of the appraised value of the goods. The department sustained the action of the collector in each case, and ir structed him to act in accordance with his recommendation. tents recently seized at the port of New York for violation of section 2802, Revised
